But how does "Amtorg' manipulate our wisest ones?

Our high finance said Russia could possibly succeed in business. Could high finance have been mistaken?

IN GREENWICH VILLAGE 100 years ago respectable citizens were buried in a quiet graveyard. As they brought their graves each probably thought, "Here I shall rest in peace until Gabriel comes to get me."

But New York City needs the land and steam shovels are now digging up the graveyards. Bones are moved, the skull of one young lady perhaps near the feet of some old man, a gruesome travesty of the Ruth-Boaz incident.

Police "guard the bones," and then will be buried to finish the "decomposition" process elsewhere.

Fortunately those dead of 100 years ago are really not injured.

And anyhow, in the course of ... in a few million million years at most, this earth itself will go back to cosmic dust.

The finest grave is only temporary. We must look elsewhere for rest.

THE KING OF SIAM, who suffers from a dangerous infection of the eye, would have known just what to do before civilized science came.

He would have gone to the temple. Priests of the strange Siamese religion would have gone through many motions, calling upon powers invisible of light and darkness.

Then the king would have died of his infection probably.

Things have changed. This modern King of Siam says to his priests: "Much obliged, but this is real illness and I can't afford to depend on imaginary cures."

He is coming to Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore.

NEW YORK'S governorship fight will be an interesting wet-dry performance.

The New York Democracy, like the ocean on which the walrus and the carpenter gazed, is "as wet as wet can be."

And the Republican party, until now the Gibraltar of prohibition, will also nominate a wet, Mr. Tuttle, who says nothing short of repeal will suit him.

Sincere prohibitionists will nominate a dry candidate, determined that citizens shall have an opportunity to vote "for God, country and the Constitution."

It is probable, there are enough to defeat the Republican candidate, that will guarantee the election of the wet Democrat. It is a puzzling dilemma, prohibitionists and Mr. Calder, former Repub-

REPEAL PLANK VOTED BY N. Y. REPUBLICANS

Stand Against 18th Amendment Taken by Vote of 733 to 258.

STATE OPTION ADVOCATED

Action Taken at Convention Today Without Debate; Hoover Rule Praised.

By The Associated Press

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 26—By a vote of 733 to 258 the New York Republican state convention incorporated in its party platform today a plank calling for the repeal of the 18th amendment.

There was no debate on the proposition. Members of the dry minority contented themselves with having their opposition placed on the convention record.

The roll call on the repeal plank was taken under a special rule which permitted the convention to adopt unanimously the rest of the platform before taking up the prohibition plank

After adoption of the platform the convention recessed until afternoon, when nomination of candidates for state offices was the order of business.

United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle of New York, was conceded the nomination for governor on the first ballot. General James H. Harbord was slated to make the nominating speech for Mr. Tuttle.

STATE OPTION FAVORED

Federal Measure To Prevent Return of Saloon Also Urged.

By United Press

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 26—The Republican party of New York urged repeal of the 18th amendment today in the platform adopted at its state convention here.

State option on the prohibition question was favored in the plank dealing with the wet-dry issue, as well as a substitute federal measure which would prevent the return of the saloon and which would obligate the federal government to help enforce the law in states which remained dry.

Praise for the Hoover administration and condemnation of recent scandals, especially those involving the judiciary in New York City, was contained in the platform.

Hoover Commended

President Hoover was commended for his measures to meet economic depression, ratification of the London treaty, passage of the revised tariff bill with a flexible clause, and many other benefits attributed to his administration.

A broadside was aimed at Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt's administration.

Among the principal planks of the platform were:

"Prior to prohibition the Republican party of New York state initiated and passed every measure which was adopted providing for

CANTON GRAFT CASE GOES TO JURY TODAY

Winds Up After Accused Men Deny Police "Protection" Charges.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Sept. 26 — The case of Ellis Darany, former Canton police sergeant, and two alleged "go-betweens" in a reputed alliance of former Canton officials and the underworld was headed toward the jury today.

Defense arguments were to be presented by Attorney Martin A. McCormick and Howell Leuck and United States Attorney Wilfred J. Mahon was to give the government's final argument. It was predicted the case would go to the jury of eight men and four women around noon.

The government's arguments were opened late yesterday by Assistant District Attorney Marc J. Wolpaw after the defense rested with Darany joining Gust and Mike Smith, the other two defendants, in denials of charges that the former sergeant received "protection graft" from bootleggers.

Darany, the last defense witness, denied knowing Tony Kalaros, one of the government's chief witnesses who had testified that he paid Darany protection money through Gust and that when the payments stopped, Darany threatened to put a policeman at the door

School Board Votes Fund To Cure Town's 'Bad Boy'

By The Associated Press

EDGEWATER, N. J., Sept. 26—In the hope of making a little gentleman out of this town's 12-year-old, "bad boy," the board of education has voted $50 worth of gland treatment for him.

The action was taken after Dr. Charles F. Buckley, school physician, testified he was certain proper treatment of the pituitary gland would cure the child of his "sinful wickedness."

The directors were told that since the start of school he has been terrorizing other pupils and his teacher with his pranks. The boy's parents live on a houseboat and are too poor to provide the medical treatment prescribed.

MISSING OHIO PLANE SOUGHT

Aerial Scouts From Two Cities Sent Out for Thorough Search.

GONE SINCE WEDNESDAY

Pilot and Passenger on Board Lost Ship; Fall Into Lake Feared.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 26—Planes were ordered to fly from two cities today to hunt for Pilot Willard Parker and William McNulty of Columbus, who have been unreported since they left here early Wednesday on a flight for an indefinite destination.

W. S. Allen, manager of the Curtiss-Wright flying service of Columbus, owners of the missing plane, announced expeditions would start from Cleveland and Pittsburg today.

Allen himself and Pilot John P Corrodi were ready to fly to Sunbury, Pa., following the route Parker would have taken had he gone to Mifflenberg, Pa., a possible destination mentioned by McNulty

In addition, Allen asked Pennsylvania state police and the New York constabulary to watch for the missing ship.

Parker, a world war pilot, and McNulty, who was flown here from Columbus Tuesday by Corrodi, had only five hours' gasoline supply when they started. A survey of possible landing fields in New York, Pennsylvania and Canada failed to reveal any trace of them, although Mrs. McNulty said her husband habitually flew to Canada. The possibility they may have fallen in to Lake Erie or landed in some remote place was considered.

If they are found safe, McNulty and Parker will have to explain why they deserted Corrodi, the only authorized pilot of the plane, according to Allen. McNulty represented himself at the airport as the owner of the plane, but he had only rented it on an hourly basis, Allen said. Airports in the United States and Canada were requested to hold the plane should it be found

By The Associated Press

HANNIBAL, O., Sept. 26—Mrs. Edna Ritchie, 32, formerly of Pittsburgh, Pa., today shot and killed her seven-year-old daughter, Dorothy, and then committed suicide in their apartment in this Monroe county town today.

Mrs. Ritchie had been ill for some time. She came here with the child from Pittsburgh about a year ago. This morning the mother took the sleeping child from her bed, carried her downstairs, laid her upon a lounge facing the wall, and then sent a bullet through her heart. The child apparently was asleep when killed.

According to friends, Mrs Ritchie was dismissed from a Pittsburgh hospital shortly before she came here. The child was a beauty prize winner in a contest at Pittsburgh some time ago.

Silence Chinese Red Batteries After Fighting Way Through Barrage.

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, Sept. 26—Two American gunboats fought their way through barrages of artillery fire laid down by Chinese reds at different places along the middle Yangtse river last night and today, silencing the heavy attacks and escaping undamaged.

The American vessels were subjected to fire from shore.

The U. S. Guam fought an artillery duel with a battery of red field guns hidden along the shore 190 miles above Hankow. The Guam opened up with her three-inch guns amid a shower of red cannon fire and then brought machine guns into play. The red attack stopped and the Guam proceeded unscathed.

Proceeding down the river the U. S. S. Oahu ran into a battery of red field guns a few miles above Kiukiang. The marauders raked the river with heavy fire. After silencing the shore battery with her machine guns the Oahu raced to safety.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Sept. 26—With all our interest attracted to Russian activities this week, I was joking Mr. Brisbane about me having been there and him not.

He replied: 'Well, Leonardo da Vinci painted a pretty fair picture of the Lords supper and he didn't even have a ticket to it.'"

He is serious about this Russia, he thinks they are going to get somewhere.

Well, anyhow, they got our Congress scared, and that's more than our country has been able to do with 'em.

"World's Oldest Man" Near Death After Accident

By United Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 26—Zaro Agha, the wizened Turk who says claim to 156 years of life, was near death today from injuries received when struck by a hit-run driver.

Agha was crossing the street in front of his hotel and stopped on an "island" in the center. A large limousine, driven by a liveried chauffeur, sideswiped the aged man and caused him to fall. His head hit the running board.

After Agha had been taken to his hotel by his great-great grandson and manager, who were with him at the time, it was found he was in a critical condition from internal injuries and possible fractures of the skull and legs.

Since Agha came to this country last July as "the world's oldest human," he has been examined by many physicians, some of whom have said he could easily be 120 years old. He claimed to have been born in 1774, shortly before the revolution, and to have fought against Napoleon.

SHERMAN SLAYING SUSPECTS INDICTED

Orris Goodyear and John Gehring Charged with First Degree Murder.

Orris Goodyear and John Gehring of Columbus today were indicted by a Franklin county grand jury on charges of first degre murder for the killing of Louis Sherman, Columbus and Marion insurance man, in the "Hello World" confectionery at Columbus last April.

The killing came shortly after Sherman had been in Marion to establish a branch office for a casualty insurance company. For months the slaying was unsolved but Goodyear and Gehring were implicated in the affair this summer when a woman "tipped" Columbus police that they had attempted a robbery at the confectionery on the night the slaying occurred.

Both men are reported to [illegible] admitted the attempted [illegible] and to have admitted [illegible] slaying.

POLITICAL POT STARTS BOILING FOR CAMPAIGN

Republicans To Pry Lid Off Fall Race with Rally at LaRue Oct. 10.

C. J. BROWN IS SPEAKER

Democrats Open Headquarters in Bank Building; Invite White Here.

With less than six weeks remaining until the No. 4 election, political groups in Marion county now are beginning to square away for the battle that will not end until ballots are cast and winners for the various county, district and national offices are decided.

Both Republican and Democratic county organizations have been working steadily in the interest of the campaign, but not until the first of October is passed will either begin waging a strenuous campaign, according to leaders of the two county executive committees.

Brown to Speak

First gun in the county campaign proper will be fired at LaRue on Friday night, Oct. 10, when Clarence J. Brown, secretary of state, and others running for offices in this district will speak at a Republican rally there. Congressman Grant E. Mouser Jr., Dallas Sullivan, candidate for state senator, and Miss Gertrude Jones of Findlay, district committeewoman, are others on the tentative program, according to members of the Marion county Republican executive committee, which is sponsoring the rally. The rally will be held in the Knights of Pythias hall at LaRue.

County Republican candidates also will be at the LaRue rally and probably will be introduced to the audience, it is said.

Rallies have not yet been scheduled by the Democratic executive committee, although the latter organization already has established headquarters on the third floor of the Marion National Bank building and is laying the foundation for a vigorous campaign. The Republican headquarters on East Center street are not yet open but probably will be opened in a week or 10 days. Miss Bernita LeMasters of 402 Pearl street is in charge at the Democratic organization's offices

DAMAGING STORMS HIT WESTERN STATES

Freak Weather Upheaval, Headed East, Brings First Touch of Winter.

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

Cleveland, O., Sept. 26—The U. S. weather bureau today issued storm warnings for all the Great Lakes. Winds reaching gale velocity were forecast for late this afternoon and tonight.

By International News Service

OMAHA, Nebr., Sept. 26—Scattered sections of the middle and western states today had received their first touch of winter, due to freak weather conditions.

After leaving snow in Wyoming, western Nebraska and South Dakota and causing severe windstorms in other states, the storm center was moving eastward today, promising lower temperatures for the lake region, according to weather forecasters.

One woman was killed and another injured in a near-cyclone at Metz, Mo., last night. Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma generally were swept by wind, hail and lightning. The dome of the University of Kansas observatory, at Lawrence, was damaged.

In Iowa, "twisters" struck near Stuart, Albia, Summitville and Ottumwa. Two men were injured by lightning at Council Bluffs, one perhaps fatally. Airmail schedules were delayed in Nebraska and Iowa.

The Laramie-Saratoga highway through the mountains in Wyoming was made impassible by three-foot snow drifts on the snowy range.

JONES ENTERS FINAL ROUND

Bobby Hands Sweetser One of Worst Defeats in Career in Tourney.

SCORES 9 TO 8 VICTORY

Los Angeles Youth Leads Homans in Other Semi-Final Match.

By The Associated Press

MERION CRICKET CLUB, ARDMORE, Pa., Sept. 26—Bobby Jones crushed Jess Sweetser, 9 and 8, today in the semi-finals of the amateur golf championship.

Card: (afternoon).

Sweetser out	463 545 453	30
Jones out	454 535 342	35

Charley Seaver, tow-headed Los Angeles youth, was 3-up on Gene Homans, of Englewood, N. J., today after the 27th hole of their 36-hole semi-final match in the national amateur golf championship. The winner will meet Jones in the final match tomorrow.

Starting the afternoon round four up, with the gallery growing to nearly 5,000, Jones pitched a trifle short to the 19th green while Sweetser made a sensational recovery from a trap to within 10 feet of the cup. Bob missed from 25 feet but so did Jess and it was a half in fours

Sweetser hit his tee shot out of bounds on the 20th, but made a great recovery nevertheless. Playing three from the tee, he shot his fourth to a trap, then laid a remarkable shot 10 feet from the cup for a six. Jones, straight all the way, was down in par five and became five up.

Bobby Adds to Lead

Jones found a trap off the 21st tee. He was hole high and came out five feet past the hole. Sweetser, on the green, was short from 15 feet, but Jones missed his putt for a three and lost. Jones four up.

Jess drove into the rough but his second on the 595 yard 22nd hole was level, with Bob's 60 yards short of the green. Sweetser was 15 feet inside Jones on the green and 12 feet from the pin. Each took two putts for a half in fives.

They were about level off the tee on the 435-yard 23rd hole. Jess used a spoon and was just off the edge while Bob's iron was well on, 25 feet from the cup. He sank for the birdie three after Jess putted very short. Jones five up.

Get Into Rough

Both drove into the rough on the 442-yard 24th. Jess had the better lie but hooked into a trap, while Bob slashed through thick grass to bring off a marvelous iron shot to the front edge of the green. Jones then approached weakly and missed the cup from 14 feet. Sweetser, well out on his third, also missed and it was half in fives.

Jones won the last four holes in a row, two of them with birdies, to put his New York rival to rout and advance to the final round of the tournament in which he is favored to finish a clean sweep of national championships for the year

Morning Play

After withstanding a great comeback by his rival, Jones was four up over Sweetser after the first 18 holes.

Jones finished strongly to regain a commanding lead after Charley Seaver, the 19-year-old Los Angeles youth, in the other semi-final match, swept into a lead of five up over Eugene V. Homans of Englewood, N. J.

Jones Finishes Strong

Jones won three of the last four holes after the big blond New Yorker had sported midway through the round and almost wiped out the Georgian's earlier advantage.

The battle of former American amateur champions started like a rout when Jones won four of the first five holes with golf that was two under par and machine-like in its accuracy. Big Jess meanwhile was all over the course, in two traps on one hole and in water hazards on another, but he suddenly braced and gave the gallery of 2,000 spectators a thrill by making a fight of it.

CHARGE WALDO, MARTEL THEFTS TO PAIR HERE

Kermett Kunkle, 21, and Stephen Sunsera, Held by Local Police.

FIND LOOT WORTH $300

Typewriter Believed Disposed of in Cleveland Pawn Shop by Men.

Confessions of two Marion men have cleared up four burglaries, including those of two Marion county high schools, and loot valued at more than $300 has been recovered, police announced today.

As a result of their confessions, Kermett Kunkle, 21, of 895 York street and Stephen Sunsera, 22, of 437 North Greenwood street are facing four burglary charges today. Three of them were filed this morning in municipal court here. The fourth will be filed shortly in Union county courts.

Both men were bound over to the grand jury when they entered guilty pleas to three charges each in municipal court this morning. Judge William R. Martin fixed their bonds at $2,500 each on each count, or a total of $7,500 each. They will be taken to county jail to await action of the grand jury, as the raising of $7,500 for each of them seems improbable.

Recover Loot

Police today were in possession of most of the loot, consisting of a radio, two typewriters, carpenter tools and blankets, taken from Martel and Waldo high schools Sept. 9, in which both young men allegedly participated, according to Acting Police Chief Ira Shrock.

One of the typewriters was not recovered, but is believed to be in a Cleveland pawn shop. Several carpenter tools stolen from the Martel school manual training department have not yet been recovered.

A portion of the 15 gallons of oil stolen from a filling station at Big Island early this month in a burglary allegedly committed by the two young men has been recovered. Six gallons of oil and a bucket of grease have been recovered.

The last burglary in which the young men are said to have been active led to their arrest and the solution of the other burglaries. This burglary occurred at Richwood where the men are said to have entered a freight car of the Erie railroad and escaped with a drum of oil. With the cooperation of Erie detectives, local police arrested the two men and recovered the loot and eventually obtained confessions from them. Officials of the sheriff's office cooperated in a search for the loot.

The Erie freight car burglary will be prosecuted in Union county courts.

Dispose of Typewriter

The loot was widely scattered. The valuable radio set was in operation in one of the men's homes, a portable typewriter was located under a bridge south of here, while blankets and drums of oil were recovered when police searched the homes of the two men.

Immediately after the school burglaries, the two took their loot to Cleveland, according to a theory advanced by police. There the typewriter was disposed of, and the two returned to Marion. En route to this city, they stopped in Bucyrus where they stole a spare tire for the Essex coach in possession of Kunkle, police say.

Police say the two have been working together and without other assistance in all four burglaries.

Both Kunkle and Sunsera have criminal records, according to police.

PLACE SCHOOL FLAGS AT NEW POSITIONS

All Buildings in City Get Banners of Standard Size.

A trim appearance has been given every public school in the city with the placing of American flags before the main entrance to each building and at both the front and east entrances at the high school.

The flags are all of the same size and are all hung from heavy iron standards, painted black. Placing a flag and standard of this type in each building will do away with unsightly bent flag poles and window ledge poles on which the pulleys have been broken, George A. Bowman, superintendent of schools said yesterday.

On fair weather days these flags are set in front and to the side of the front entrances to the buildings and remain there until the close of classes. In inclement weather they are placed immediately inside the doors.

Indians Given Mineral Rights in Court Case

By International News Service

DENVER — Members of the Seminole tribe of Indians have outright possession of both surface and mineral rights to land awarded the Seminole nation by the government, according to a decision recently handed down by the United States circuit court of appeals for the tenth district. The decision was given in connection with an appeal from a federal court in Oklahoma by Arvey Moore, a Seminole Indian.

Moore had sold a piece of land some years ago on which oil was subsequently discovered. Moore sued to obtain mineral rights to the land under a treaty which the United States had made with the Seminole Indians. Moore lost his case an appealed to the circuit court of appeals here.

The circuit court held that a later amendment to the treaty gave individual members of the tribe both mineral and surface rights to their land, and that Moore in selling his land had also sold his mineral rights.

SENIORS CHOOSE NEWBY PRESIDENT

Harding High School Class Organizes for Year; Treasurer Is Reelected.

Hayes Newby has been elected president of the senior class of Harding High school in one of the earliest class elections ever held at the school. The purpose of the election so soon after the opening of the school year is to have the class organized to take care of the entertainment course which will open the last of October, he said Thursday.

It is the belief of those at the high school that an election early in the year, will give the class a greater spirit of unity in all activities in which the students participate. Senior activities are heavy each year, and an organization of the class soon after the opening of the school semester will put the class as a whole in a better position to carry out its plans and to cope with all business projects, including the entertainment course.

For the fourth year the class has elected Jeanne Berg as its treasurer. She was treasurer of the Vernon Heights freshman class and has served as class treasurer in her sophomore and junior years.

Marian Isuly was elected vice president and Mary Guthrie was elected secretary. Nominations were held in a class assembly last Friday and the election was held this week.

Turning New Pages

WITH EDNA S. DUTTON

THERE'S something a bit old-fashioned about Joan Sutherland's interesting and unusual novel "Secret Places" a delightful story for an evening at home.

The story is about Toni, her very beautiful sister Greta and her husband, a very handsome and charming chap named Fedor, a villain who has lots of wealth and a yearning for Greta, the lovely mother of the sisters, an artist, his model, and lots of folks to furnish the social background.

Fedor and Toni become engaged early in the story which makes the reader wonder just what is going to happen to furnish the interest and intrigue. Greta immediately sets her head to capture Fedor not because she particularly wants him but because she loves conquest, and with this comes some entanglements which provide a setting for a scene between the sisters when Toni comes to Paris unexpectedly and finds her sister having supper with her future husband.

Greta's affair with D'Arblaye is food for the gossips and eventually comes to a climax in the murder of the villain. One wonders just why her husband seems so blind to the affair but husbands of beautiful women seem to have a weakness in that direction and when the smoke clears away the pair of them are trying to forget in a little village in Switzerland.

Toni's loyalty and the actions of Fedor, if handled by a less clever writer might have brought forth something besides complimentary adjectives from the reader but with Miss Sutherland's artistry the chapters ride the crest of the waves to the end of a "good story."

Author Chooses English Setting for Story

A FARM in England furnishes the setting for the romance, feuds and everyday happenings in the life of Rancher Jim, the hero of the novel of the same name by Harold Bindloss. The introductory chapters, however, find Mr. Jim in northwest Canada, where he is victimized by a dishonest promoter, his coal mine is a failure and the girl with whom he is in love is betrothed to another man. Selling his ranch he goes to the home of his uncle in England, where he finds it easy to act the part of a gentleman farmer.

Life at the farmhouse has its exciting moments in the feud which existed between the elder Railton and his brother-in-law which, while not quite as deadly as those in the Tennessee mountains, was equally as thrilling. Two English girls enter into the plot, the brilliant, scheming Kirstine and the lovable and dependable Grace, and both are quite different from the lovely Helen, with whom Jim had been in love in Canada.

Primitive Folks Are Prudes

MARGARET MEAD has written a new book "Growing Up in New Guinea," in which she has gleaned some enlightening facts in regard to the morals and manners of the natives of the Island of Manus. Her account of their sex life is equally as diverting as in her "Coming of Age in Samoa."

On Manus the almost naked people are surprisingly more prudish than the Puritans Taboos restrict the women especially. There is no love as we know it. The children, however, because they are born precariously in huts over the water, are protected against fear and are taught to punt their fathers' canoes at the age of three. They rule the home, "sassing" and even striking their parents with impunity. Yet they are taught industry, prudence, thrift, abstinence and strict respect for property.

Author Pays Tribute to Women in Books

LEONARD MERRICK, whose recently issued "The Little Dog Laughed," is his first novel in four years, writes that if he had written a dedication to this new book he would have "dedicated it thankfully to women, for as a novelist I am profoundly grateful to women for the instruction they have given me. If in my books there are women that carry conviction to the minds of women readers, if I have drawn heroines that seem real, and I am told that I have, I claim very little credit for it. This is not ingratiating modesty; I take credit for a good deal in my books, notably, for the prodigious pains I have expended on them. If Sir Joshua Reynolds had not been absurd when he defined genius as the 'capacity for taking pains' my books would be immortal. But I blow no trumpet for having portrayed women as they are, because I have been privileged to receive, from many women, many confidences."

FARMER ON TRIAL IN ASSAULT CASE

Petit Jury Hears Testimony in Indictment Against Harvey Lichtenberger.

Testimony was heard by a jury in common pleas court this morning in the case of Harvey Lichtenberger, Waldo township farmer, indicted by the Marion county grand jury in July on a charge of assault preferred by Fred Ruth, a neighbor farmer.

Lichtenberger is alleged to have struck Ruth last June 4 when the two men became involved in an argument while working on their farms. The argument is said to have been over a driveway between the two men's farms which Ruth wanted closed. Common pleas court last year refused to permit the closing of the driveway.

A class of 58 high school students who are studying commercial law sat in the court room this morning to hear the case as part of their class work. Their teacher is Miss Mildred Crow.

Wilbur Jacoby is attorney for Lichtenberger. Prosecuting Attorney Alfred Donithen and Frank Ruth, a Columbus lawyer, are prosecuting the case.

Caledonia-Northern Road Open to Travel

The Caledonia-Northern road in Scott township now is open to traffic after having been treated with rolled macadam, County Surveyor Cecil R. Leavens said today.

The macadam was laid by S. M. Wooley of Marion who was awarded the contract on his bid of $2,900. The road is slightly over one mile in length.

HANDY FIRE

Truck Driver Takes Machine to Station as Machine Blazes.

When a truck belonging to the Dependable Messenger & Transfer Service caught fire yesterday afternoon, Kenneth Snare of Pleasant street, the driver, did the most natural thing in the world. He drove the smoking truck to the central fire department on South Prospect street where firemen made short work of the blaze, which originated in the wiring of the car. Very little damage was done the truck.

If you could only know in time, and shake hands with the flabby handed man in the same way he does.

ASKS GOLDEN RULE IN USE OF RADIO

Mayor Jones Takes Fourth Step To Make Marion Noiseless City.

A fourth step to make Marion a noiseless city was taken today by Mayor L. Don Jones when he requested Marionites to use discretion in the operation of their radio sets.

Application of the "Golden Rule" in the adjustment of radio loudspeaker volume controls was urged by Mayor Jones, who said he has received numerous complaints where enthusiastic fans have entertained an entire neighborhood by operating a vociferous radio sets at all hours of the day and night.

"Operate your set from 6 a. m. to 12 m. but set the volume controls so it won't disturb the neighbors," Mayor Jones urged. He explained, however, that operation of sets is purely a matter of discretion on the part of the radio fan. There are no ordinances prohibiting or controlling the use of a set unless an irate neighbor files a nuisance charge against the operator.

Last week, Mayor Jones launched campaigns to apprehend motorists who drive automobiles not equipped with motor mufflers, to put a "taboo" on bellings in Marion, and to reduce the tooting of locomotive whistles in Marion at night.

Marathon Dancer Has Birthday Party Here

A thousand persons last night helped Miss Eleanor Maynhart of Ft. Wayne, Ind., one of the contestants in the national dance marathon at Crystal Lake park, celebrate her twentieth birthday anniversary.

Marion bakeries and private individuals donated several large cakes for the occasion. Since the dancers are on a strict diet, they were given little more than a taste of the pastry, the remainder of the cakes going to the crowd.

Miss Maynhart received several gifts. The 12 couples and one single remaining in the contest staged a birthday program honoring her.

At noon today the contest had passed the 312 hour mark.

TAX DISTRIBUTION TO BE MADE MONDAY

Settlement Report Approved by State Auditor Joseph Tracy.

Semi-annual tax settlement in Marion county will be made Monday, it was announced today by County Auditor Earl E. Thomas.

Settlement figures were approved by State Auditor Joseph T. Tracy yesterday when Miss Edith Ebling, Marion county tax deputy, submitted them for his official examination.

The September distribution this year will amount to $1,051,183.13, an increase over that of a year ago which was $998,572.73. The collection of tax money was larger because the time was extended several weeks after the June 20 deadline, Thomas pointed out today.

Extension of time was granted taxpayers by county commissioners and County Treasurer Bert J. Shelton in order to enable farmers, whose crops were delayed by the drouth, to market their products before paying their taxes. Such a move brought in thousands of dollars that might otherwise have gone on the delinquent tax list, it was pointed out.

The distribution to be made Monday originally was to have been made on Sept. 1, but the extension of time on taxes prevented county officials from working on the settlement figures.

Daily Proverb—"Laziness travels so slowly that poverty soon overtakes him."

The Canadian National system is to cut the present time of its International Limited, of eighteen hours and five minutes between Montreal and Chicago, an hour. What's Canada trying to do; show up our American roads?

The National Socialists, who are in control of Coburg, voted down a proposal to invite President Hindenburg to visit that municipality. Evidently there is at least one German town which is opposed to doing itself honor.

From Riga, Latvia, comes the story that eighty persons, on the average, are executed in Russia weekly for hoarding over the limit of 160 rubles. The bolsheviki leaders are mighty sensitive about the hiding away of money where they experience difficulty in locating it.

The Fascist secretary of Mantua, Italy, has been condemned to exile for five years on a charge of grafting. Were grafting thus punished over here there certainly would be some awful dwindling of the political population of New York City.

The consulting structural engineer of the Westinghouse Electric company told the American Welding society in session in New York City that it would be possible and from an engineering standpoint entirely practicable to build a steel tower a mile high. Maybe so, but for the life of us we can not think of a thing this old world of ours needs less than a tower a mile high. We of America are up in the air far too much as it is.

France is testing a ship which is held to be unsinkable as a result of either gun fire or torpedo attack. If the test results successfully, it's easy to guess that Great Britain will exercise that London treaty option to build more cruisers.

President Harry Stude, of the American Bakers, says that "fifty per cent. of the people are on a self-imposed diet for a self-diagnosed ailment, ninety per cent. of which is that tired feeling produced by a lack of sufficient food" and the result is a loss to the farmers of millions of dollars. Maybe so! But, Harry, think of how it's going to boom the business of the doctors!

At the Threshold Merely.

An Associated Press dispatch from Chicago, published in our news columns a day or two ago, told how the application of radium's gamma ray could be utilized to photograph through ten inches of solid steel.

By the new use of the ray discovered by Robert F. Mehl, superintendent of the Naval Research laboratory in Washington, Assistant Physicist Charles S. Barrett, of the same institution, and Gilbert E. Doan, assistant professor of metallury of Lehigh university, it will be possible to look into and discover defects in steel girders, locomotive wheels or other metal solids which are to be subjected to great strain to a much greater depth than is possible by the use of the X-ray. By the use of the gamma ray, the secret defects of metals of almost three times the thickness possible of penetration by the ordinary X-ray may be photographed. It is estimated that an X-ray machine capable of photographing a defect through metal ten inches thick would cost not less than $100,000 and be excessively bulky while the tube for the use of the gamma ray is inexpensive and so small as to make it easily portable. As explained before the American Society for Steel Treating in Chicago, the radium and the tube necessary for it utilization "could be carried in a special small brief case for use in far-off Alaska or remotest Africa," and, unlike the X-ray, it doesn't require a plant to develop a high electric current.

The gamma ray, it was further explained, is so sensitive that it will reveal a defect as small as two per cent. of the thickness of the metal in which it exists, and the simplicity of its operation is remarkable. The technician, it was explained, can group the objects he wants to photograph and leave word with the night watchman of the plant in which it is used to drop the radium into the tube when he comes to work. The ray will operate during the night and the technician can pick up his plates in the morning.

The X-ray, at the time of its discovery, was considered the marvel of the ages. But a few years have passed, and now we have a ray much more penetrating, more sensitive, much simpler in its operation, far less expensive and much more easily transported.

It has been said that the scientific discoveries of the last fifty years have eclipsed those of all preceding time. And yet so many and so great have been the discoveries of the last decade or two in the realm of scientific research that it may fairly be assumed that we are merely at the threshold of the storehouse of scientific knowledge the near future will reveal to us

President Green on Unemployment.

One of the factors responsible for the slow recovery of the country from the depression which set in almost coincidentally with the Wall Street stock debacle of last fall has been the tendency of a considerable element of the public to question announcements of employment gains and manifestations of industrial and business recovery. It mattered little whether the announcements came from men holding high places in the official life of the government, from financiers or from industrial and busines leaders. Still there was doubt. Optimistic statements by cabinet officials were held due to the promptings of politics. Assurances of improved economic conditions by business and industrial leaders were ascribed to self-interest.

It is hardly probable, however, that even this "Doubting Thomas" element of our national citizenship will question an announcement of improved employment conditions coming from William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

President Green stated, Wednesday, that the improvement in the unemployment situation foreshadowed in the federation's reports of August, gained force in the early weeks of September. The gain was only one per cent., it is true, but yet a gain, and employment gains in September are the rare exception rather than the rule.

"We welcome this most welcome trend for the better," President Green went on to say. "It indicates improvement in the business situation, at least seasonably. This is the first time in the three years since we have collected figures from trade unions that employment has shown so definite and general an improvement in September. This is partly due, of course, to the unprecedented number out of work in July and August. But in the present situation it is encouraging since better employment means more purchasing power for wage-earners.

"However, the upturn in employment has been only slight in comparison to the large numbers still needing jobs. Even if conditions improve further in October, as they sometimes do, millions will have scant substance to provide against the dreaded winter months ahead."

President Green is careful not to say that he looks for increased improvement the coming month, but one reading between the lines may glean that it would not occasion any great degree of surprise on his part should such improvement develop.

Assuming for sake of argument that all assurances of improved employment conditions heretofore uttered had ulterior motives behind them, no such charge can be made concerning the statement of the union labor head. It must be accepted as a statement of fact without question or quibble, and held worthy of 100 per cent. credit.

London announces that ninety railroad stations have been closed to passenger traffic recently owing to losses due to trade depression and the growth of motor-bus travel and that eighty stations more will be closed by the end of the year. As the people of the towns in which stations have been, or will be, closed are served by bus lines operated by the railroads, they will not suffer inconvenience and a considerable saving will be worked by the railroads.

According to the Moscow Daily Trud, there were over 16,000 accidents on the railroads of soviet Russia the first six months of the present year against 14,047 during the corresponding period in 1929. Another light on the blessings of "Liberty and Equality."

A Hollywood movie actress is being sued for $50,000 damages for the alleged alienation of the affections of a movie actor out there by the latter's divorced wife. There must be a bear market for affections in Hollywood at present. Heretofore the minimum Hollywood quotation has been $250,000.

One can not help wondering if it isn't possible that some of the ministers who are raising an outcry against the American Legion prayer may not have been conscientious objectors or pacificists during the World war.

King Baggot has agreed to pay his divorced wife by way of alimony $325 a week and, in addition, half of all he makes above $850 a week. There are times when we are inclined to regret that we didn't go in for movie directing instead of spreading joy and sunshine in paragraphs.

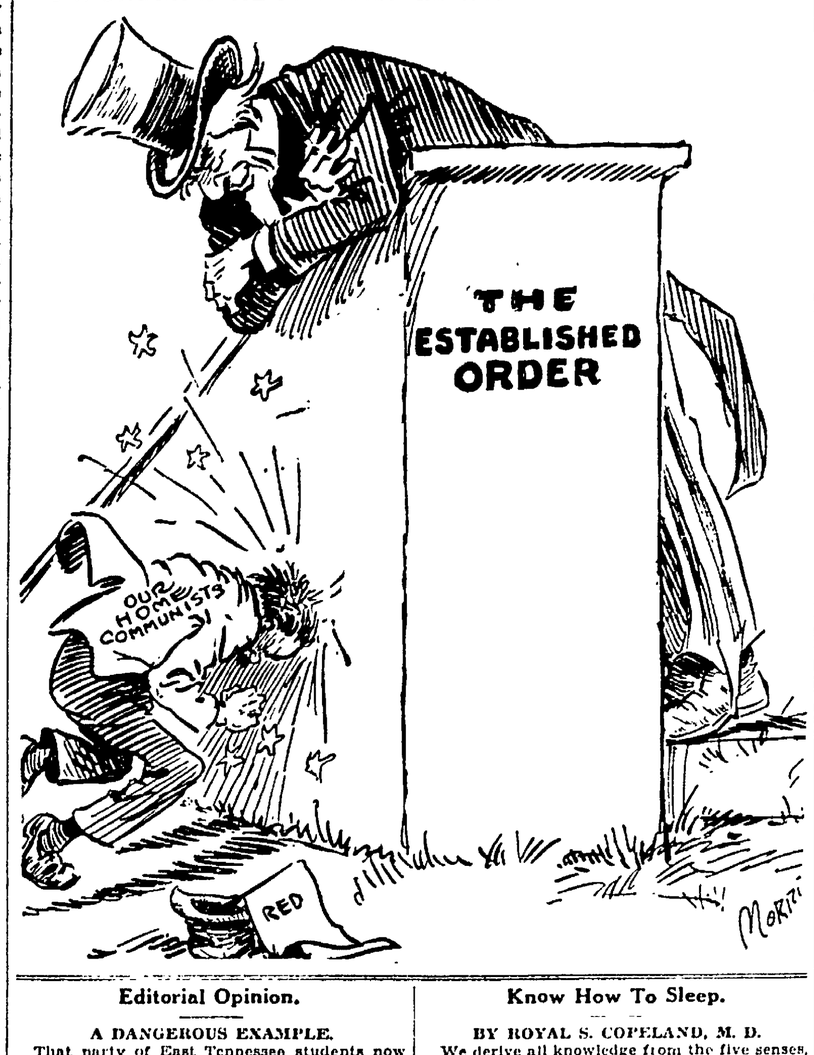
It has been developed that spies in England tipped off to German submarines the sailing of the vessel bearing Lord Kitchener to Russia with the result that it was sunk and Kitchener drowned. Still, it is well to remember that war is war and that in it all nations employ spies.

It wasn't so many years ago that an airplane capable of attaining a speed of 200 miles an hour was held to be a possibility, and yet Captain Orlebar, the British air squadron leader who holds the world record of 355 miles an hour, has recently exceeded a speed of 400 miles on several test flights. And who can say to a certainty that today we are any closer to the real speed possibilities of the plane than we thought we were ten or fifteen years ago?

The seizure outside the twelve-mile limit of the Canadian motorship, Firelight, by the coast guard, though the vessel was at once released when no liquor was found aboard, has brought a protest from the Dominion government and doubtless will bring another apology. The question which nobody seems able to answer is: Why should our coast guard seize any vessel outside the twelve-mile limit, no matter what it might be carrying?

France, prospering as never before in her history and gathering in the world's gold, is seeking to pay off $308,800,000 in bonds purchased by Britishers when the franc stood at twenty-five to the pound with her depreciated francs which stand twenty-five to the dollar, but British Chancellor of the Exchequer Snowden refuses to stand for it. France can never reasonably hope to attain the respect of the world till she breaks away from her littleness in money matters.

"I WONDER IF HE IS SATISFIED WITH HIS EMPLOYMENT?"



Editorial Opinion.

A DANGEROUS EXAMPLE.

That party of East Tennessee students now visiting Washington represents an educational innovation which many who have "enjoyed the advantages" of a longer training—or want of training—must either resent or feel a certain pricking of conscience at. A "student" is a person who studies or a person who attends school. These Hamilton county men and women qualify under both definitions. To the first one they make the vital addendum of studying with a strong determination to learn. Hamilton county has thirty night schools for adults, with nearly 800 pupils. The pilgrims at the capital are the prize or honor scholars. Their ages run from twenty-five to seventy-two. At home there is even a pupil of eighty-one.

Longfellow gave lasting circulation to the myth that Cato learned Greek at eighty. As a matter of fact, the old humbug became familiar with the Greek language and literature in his youth. Only as a choice specimen of "ancient Roman" die-hard he affected to despise anything that came from the effeminate Greeks. The Hamilton night scholars do double work. They work by day. They go to school for two hours three nights a week. They must be tired and sleepy, one would think; in no good condition for their evening task.

It is not only surprising, but almost scandalous, to hear that in the last three months "many of them not only have learned to read and write, but have crowded into that brief period four or five years of public school work." This is breaking all the rules. Why, many of us, after ten or twelve years of take-it-as-easy-as-you-can in the public schools, after squeezing through them, squeezed into college, where we learned to pursue loafing as a fine art. Can it be that costly buildings and elaborate apparatus and a plethora of instructors and professors can't give the majority of their pupils the victorious will to learn, the swift conquest of difficulties? "They know exactly what they want," we are told, "and work hard to accomplish now those things denied them in their youth."

That seems like an ill-natured slap to those of us who were exposed to no such denial. Yet we, too, must have known what we wanted. We wanted not to work. These late-coming students must have had good teachers, but even fine teachers don't necessarily make fine scholars. The resolution and the achievement of these mature students are beyond praise; but if this sort of thing is allowed to go on, conservatives will not only be humiliated but alarmed. What would happen if ten, twelve, sixteen, eighteen, twenty should catch the ardor of seventy-two and education should educate? —New York Times.

An Atrocious One.

The Western Reserve's First Church.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

The first census of the Western reserve that carries with it any authority is found in the diary of Rev. Joseph Badger, who as a missionary visitor came out from New England in 1800 to visit the settlements in the reserve, and consequently made some notes in his diary of the settlements visited. Unfortunately, however, he set down in his diary only the number of families in each settlement, not the number of individuals, but that is a good basis for estimate. He enumerated but 150 families that year in the reserve.

The following year he founded at Austinburg, where, on October 24, 1801, he organized and established the first church in the Western reserve and the second in the Northwest territory in Ohio, the first being at Marietta.

Several years ago the Western Reserve Society Sons of the American Revolution dedicated a tablet in public square in the town of Burton, where Rev. Mr. Badger later did notable religious work, proclaiming him a revolutionary patriot pioneer, missionary educator of the Western reserve. On this occasion Dr. Wade M. Leonard, president of the Western Reserve Society Sons of the American Revolution, delivered an address upon the works and life of Rev. Mr. Badger.

He was born in Massachusetts, but removed to the Green Mountain country later and from that place enlisted for service in the Revolutionary, serving three years and being finally discharged because of illness. His people were farming and upon leaving the army he resumed that occupation, but at the same time took up study under a clergyman. Then he entered Yale college with theology as his principal object and by tutoring worked his way through. He preached for a short time at Blandford, Massachusetts, and then undertook his Western Reserve missionaryship. He died at the age of ninety, in 1845.

Know How To Sleep.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

We derive all knowledge from the five senses, seeing, hearing, smelling, tasting and feeling. Each of these special functions depends upon a delicate and finely-adjusted mechanism. Overuse will damage or destroy it. Regular rest and sleep are essential to its normal activity.

Sleep is a great mystery. We know that it is a degree of unconsciousness, but no one has ever solved the problem of exactly what it is. Brain and nerves, when tired and worn, are recreated in sleep.

Prolonged sleeplessness in the human being damages the brain and nervous system most, but other serious bodily changes occur also. The body temperature falls, there are degenerative changes in the fatty tissues, and other serious effects are felt.

Numerous experiments on animals have established the fact that loss of sleep is far more dangerous to life than starvation. A sleepless animal at the end of three or four days is as miserable as a starved one at the end of ten or fifteen days.

It is very important to know how to sleep. To have satisfying and refreshing sleep one must have the right conditions. Quietness and freedom from light are absolutely essential to sound sleep. Even a ray of light may send its disturbing message to the brain. The brain is not at rest if any one of the special organs is working.

Probably you have often been awakened by the sharp blast of an automobile horn, or a disagreeable smell floating in through an open window, or by a sudden bright light shining. If any of these annoying things were kept up long enough, positive illness might follow.

Even though you sleep through any one of these disturbances, the nerves carry the message to the brain. The quality of sleep is changed. It is much less restful and restorative than if the sleeper had none of these disquieting factors.

A nervous person, or one who is ill or recovering from an illness, should have sleeping quarters where stillness and darkness reign. Even a night lamp is bad for profound and restful sleep. I know of a friend living in the city where there is much light, who always has a black handkerchief at hand to place over the eyes on going to sleep. This is a very good idea, for it makes for sound rest.

Very often sleeplessness comes from indigestion of some sort. Many persons can not eat anything just before sleeping. Banish worry if you would sleep well. One's mental state has much to do with this business of sleeping, and why worry anyway?

The vigor, efficiency and length of days are promoted by giving the special senses nothing to do during the hours of sleep. That is why care must be taken to provide conditions favorable to sleep.

Fatigue is nature's warning. We should heed that warning by having the right amount and proper degree of sleep.

"Paradise of the Pacific."

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

Having gone in our more or less hurried way through the Philippines we naturally turn next to another of the acquired possessions of the United States, the Hawaiian islands.

"The Paradise of the Pacific," as it is frequently called, lies approximately 2,500 miles from San Francisco, in the Pacific ocean and is a port of call for express steamers to and from the Orient. The group which Mark Twain called "the loveliest fleet of islands that lies anchored in any ocean" consists of eight habitable islands with a total area of 6,449 square miles. Captain Cook, whose name is irrevocably connected with the islands spoke of them as "The Rainbow Isles." There is a haunting beauty, a something indefinable which creeps over one even at first contact and makes one restless to return.

As no effort will be made to condense a description of this charming spot into one article, suppose we go about considering Hawaii in an orderly way and take up first the early history. The best authorities agree that the islands were first inhabited by Polynesians or Malays and that these probably first set foot on land here about 500 A. D. Maybe they drifted from the South Sea islands, but if they did so how they managed to make the passage of the thousands of miles in small open boats remains a mystery.

Another theory is that at one time Hawaii was a part of a Pacific continent which, like Alantis, was swallowed up in the sea, but it is much more likely, scientists say, that the islands were thrust out of the bottom of the ocean by volcanic action instead of being a part of land which sank. And these same scientists say it took at least 20,000 years to do this upheaving, which seems quite a while.

To Captain Cook is generally given credit for bringing the attention of the world to the Hawaiian islands. When Cook was on his third around the world voyage in the "Discovery" in 1778 he found what he called the Sandwich islands. He also found a very hospitable people inhabiting them, as after the occupation by the Malayans or Polynesians in the sixth century the islands were rediscovered by the Spaniards when a navigator named Don Juan Gaetano landed in 1555.

The influence of Captain Cook and his followers upon the islanders was not all it should have been, and the evils which followed led to Cook's death, by violence a year after he arrived. For a long time there was a myth that Cook's body had been eaten by cannibals and when I was a child I remember seeing a startling picture of Cook in a boat surrounded by fierce naked cannibals who, the legend said, killed and ate him. The fact is Cook was killed by a native following his high-handed way of making levies upon the natives and permitting his crew to indulge in all sorts of excesses at the expense of the islanders.

The simple islanders worshiped Cook as a god when he landed among them. He and his followers did about as they pleased and levied all sorts of imposts upon the natives and abused their hospitality in many ways. They seemed to go on the assumption that no laws of God or man restrained them. After Cook's death, however, his crew withdrew from the island to their ship.

Scientific Study of Greenland.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

During the next two years a great scientific exploration and investigation of Greenland will focus the eyes of the world upon that bleak inhospitable and perilous region. A party of twenty scientists, including geologists, meteorologists and engineers from the German Aeronautical Research bureau, will spend a year and a half in intensive investigations. No one has ever spent a winter on the inland ice of Greenland. The present party, equipped by the German Scientific Research society, will establish three stations for wintering in Greenland, one on each edge of the ice field and one in the very center, on a line joining the other two stations.

The mysterious Greenland to be studied is a giant island girt by a great chain of irregular mountains some 6,000 feet high. The inside of the island is a mighty depression, in area four times the size of Germany. In the middle of this huge bowl the ice piles up to a height of more than 9,000 feet.

Greenland offers one huge puzzle to scientists, as well as countless unplumbed mysteries.

The mountain chain surrounding the vast interior saucer is broken at numerous places by fjords, through which huge ice chunks in the form of glaciers are constantly pouring out to the surrounding seas. Some of these great ice blocks draw hundreds of feet of water, and their circumferences are measured in miles. These break up the icebergs which are constantly encountered in lanes of ocean travel.

The great puzzle which scientists are now seeking to solve is the mode of renewal of the great interior ice cone. So vast is the amount of ice precipitated into the surrounding seas that no adequate computation of it is as yet possible. These great glaciers which are constantly forming and pushing their way to the sea illustrate a mysterious and baffling problem in growth and renewal.

Many phases of scientific research will be prosecuted in the course of this exploration. Valuable contributions to the science of meteorology may be expected as the result of a careful study of storm centers, air currents and temperature chances.

The findings in these respects may go a long way towards enlarging meteorological knowledge, and enabling meteorologists to supply adequate weather forecasts over longer periods of time.

Another important issue involves the pressing problem concerning finding way stations for transatlantic flights. Greenland lies on the shortest path in airplane routes between central Europe and Chicago. Capitalists are deeply interested nowadays in all intercontinental air routes. The determination of the ice fields as possibly affording landing stages for aircraft will constitute an important contribution to the great coming industry of intercontinental air travel and transport.—Copyright 1930, International Feature Service, Inc.

NEW PRISONS RECOMMENDED

Board Named by Cooper Sees Need of Two Additions in Ohio.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 26 — The next legislature will be asked to authorize the establishment of two new prisons in Ohio if Governor Cooper follows recommendations in the preliminary report of his welfare survey commission.

The report, completed yesterday, said the present rate of increase in prison population made increased facilities imperative. From 1920 to 1929 the commission said, the number of male prisoners increased from 5,419 to 8,222. Based on these figures it added, the population will be 10,000 by 1940.

Under the commission's plans, the Grafton state farm would be developed into a new institution to house 1,500 prisoners and the other new prison would be erected at a site yet to be selected.

The commission said that Ohio penitentiary has been practically rebuilt so far as proper housing, sanitation and fire protection are concerned. This rebuilding, the commission added, started before the fire last April in which 321 convicts perished. To replace the penitentiary as it now stands, the report said, would cost from $8,000,000 to $12,000,000.

The commission recommended that the legislature provide funds for a continuance of the bureau of classification of prisoners; suggested that the London prison farm be maintained as a reformatory with a population not to exceed 1,500; urged prompt elimination of the wards at the Boys' Industrial school at Lancaster and the Girls' Industrial school at Delaware, and declared that state officials must coordinate their efforts to keep the penal population down through sentencing and efficient parole systems.

No show is so bad but that there are some who will applaud—much to the disgust of the others.

OTHER LANDS, other views.

In Miami David Weinberg, tailor, interested in Communistic ideals, was kidnaped, tarred, feathered, beaten, wrapped in a white-hooded cloak, thrown out of an automobile.

In Russia 48 men, including high government officials, accused of not sympathizing with Communistic ideals, are taken out and shot dead.

They were accused of stirring up public discontent by interfering with food distribution.

In one spot you are tarred and feathered for talking Communism.

In another spot you are shot because you are not interested in Communism.

ANGELS that study us must wonder.

The Paris newspapers Le Temps and Le Journal des Debats, most powerful in France, demand that the French government put safety ahead of everything else.

Talk about a United States of Europe and talk of economy are secondary.

The important thing is for France to have an army, navy and especially an air fleet able to defy the world.

The intelligent Temps says:

"We must guard against unpleasant surprises by relying on our own power to insure the country's safety."

CITY TO ACT ON NEW RATE

Latest Gas Company Proposal To Be Considered at Special Council Session.

City council today was preparing to consider and hear discussion on what is generally conceded in official circles to be the most attractive gas rate proposal yet offered by the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. in a special meeting tonight.

Should council refuse the proposal, as it has refused a previous proposal on a dozen occasions, council and the company will remain in a deadlock that has prevailed since the first of the year.

Should the proposal of the company be taken in a favorable light and passed tonight, Marion would be removed from a six-year gas rate fight starting with the Logan Gas Co. by 33 Ohio cities of which Marion was a party. Also, a new eight-inch line to trunk lines at Green Camp will be started at once if the proposal is accepted, E. M. Tharpe, assistant general manager of the gas company has promised.

Marionites would not lose their rights to a possible refund in the Logan Gas Co. rate fight by settling with the local company now, gas company officials declare.

Briefly, the company's new proposal to be considered tonight offers either a seven or a 10 year rate contract. In the seven year contract, the rates are $1 for the first 500 cubic feet of gas and 60 cents a thousand feet for all above 500 feet for the first six years, with an increase to $1.50 for the first 500 feet and 60 cents a thousand for all above that amount during the seventh year. In the 10 year proposal, the rate would be $1 for the first 500 feet and 60 cents a thousand feet for all above that amount for seven years and $1.50 for the first 500 feet and 60 cents for all above 500 feet during the last three years of the contract

TRUCK HALTS CARS

Machine Goes Into Ditch West of Meeker.

Traffic over the Harding Highway west of Meeker was routed on side roads this morning while a big truck, which had slipped into the ditch, was being pulled back on the roads.

Deputy Sheriffs Fred Williams and Roy Chapman were dispatched to the scene to handle the traffic.

A shell gasoline truck became imbedded in the mud on North Main street in front of the Fahey Bank this morning and it, too, had to be pulled out. The morass in which it was caught was the result of recent paving operations in the street at that point.

ADD MARION COUNTY TO DROUTH AREA

Farmers To Be Given Reduced Freight Rates in Dry Territory.

Although the federal department of agriculture yesterday announced that Marion county had been added to the list of Ohio counties comprising the drouth area, county commissioners today had not been officially notified of the action.

Farmers in the drouth area are entitled to freight reductions on feed shipped in from outside points, provided they are officially approved by a county drouth committee. Such a committee has not yet been formed due to the fact that the county has no agricultural agent who, according to the federal department, must be a member of the committee.

Probability that Paul Smith, service manager of the Marion County Farm Bureau, might be approved as a member of the committee instead of an agricultural agent was seen today.

Union, Crawford, Wyandot and Morrow counties are also in the dry area.

the control or restriction of the liquor traffic. As a party the Democrats of New York state opposed every measure of this kind, including local option.

"As long as the prohibition law remains on the statute books it should be obeyed. The security and stability of society require that the constitution and laws of our country shall, until legally changed, be supported by obedience and enforcement.

"Good" and "Evil" Described

"The good in national prohibition lies in its outlawing of the saloon and the saloon system, and in its grant to congress of power to cooperate internally within states that maintain a prohibition system and to protect such states from importations of liquor from without. On the other hand, the evil in national prohibition lies largely in the compulsion sought to be placed upon states which do not desire the prohibition system. We favor the restoration to each state of the authority to deal with the liquor problem in accordance with the wishes of its citizens.

"To this end we favor the repeal of the 18th amendment, providing that simultaneously and as part of the new amendment a provision is adopted outlawing and forbidding everywhere in the United States the saloon system and its equivalent and the private traffic in intoxicating beverages for private purposes."

BANK ROBBERS TAKE $7,000 IN HOLDUP

Toledo Cashier Saves $15,000 by Refusal To Reveal Hiding Place.

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 26—Half hour after opening this morning a branch of the Commerce-Guardian Savings Bank and Trust Company in an outlying business district here was held up by three men who obtained about $7,000.

Although threatened with death, Jack Rominski, branch manager, refused to reveal the hiding place of $15,000 which had just been delivered to the bank.

Rominski said the robbers apparently had knowledge of the delivery of the currency and followed the money truck to the branch bank.

Soon after the truck had left, the three bandits entered the branch with drawn pistols and held up Rominski and a bookkeeper.

The robbers finally took $7,000 in currency they found in the cages and fled.

PROSPECT DAM IS COMPLETED

Obstruction in Scioto River Raises Water Two Feet For Power Plant.

Erection of the dam in the Scioto river south of Prospect has already resulted in the raising of the water level about two feet it was reported today.

A further raise is expected if flood gates are placed in the dam's sluiceways, but whether such gates will be installed has not yet been decided by the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Electric Co., which built the dam, since the structure already is reported to have backed up sufficient water to the company's power plant north of Prospect.

The dam was built by the company to provide a source of water to the power company's plant, which uses great quantities of water in condensing steam.

While the dam was being erected by the company with the aid of finances raised by the village of Prospect, farmers owning land adjacent to the river north of the obstruction protested its erection. The protest finally resulted in the filing of a notice with the electric company that in the event of floods which might harm their lands, they would hold the company liable.

Prospect came to the aid of the power company's project provided it would be built south of the village in order that residents might benefit from the increased boating, bathing and fishing facilities that the raising of the water level would offer.

The Mysterious Billhead

F[illegible]SON drew in a long, hiss[illegible]breath. Death had stalked [illegible]more successfully than he. [illegible]searched the woman's [illegible]belongings, bringing to [illegible]ing that touched upon

Sweeping his hand [illegible]e mouth he removed the [illegible]ained and unsightly false [illegible]sing the gums to view. [illegible]nside picket he took out [illegible]set of false teeth and [illegible]n into place. These were [illegible]sen and completed his [illegible]ion. His short motor [illegible]reversible lining, and he [illegible]o it; his cap also was

[illegible]r to where Mrs. Law[illegible]with head sagging upon [illegible]he stood for a second by [illegible]woman's side, but striva[illegible]ld he could not bring [illegible]ouch her, nor to drag [illegible]s out from the drawer of [illegible]n had searched the first [illegible]the winding stairs when [illegible]he key turn in the lock [illegible]nt door and a woman came in, followed by two men.

"Come this way," he heard her say. "We can talk undisturbed in here," and she led the way into the parlor. As the door of that room closed, Ferguson gained the vestibule and passed like an evil shadow into the outer darkness.

Inside the parlor the landlady peered inquiringly through near-sighted eyes at her callers.

"Do I understand you gentlemen seeks rooms?" she asked.

"No." Thorne was the spokesman, as Jim Barker, his assistant, kept discreetly silent. "We called to see one of your lodgers, Mr John Winslow."

She shook her head. "There's nobody of that name here."

"This was the number—" Thorne's expressionless countenance gave no indication of his sense of disappointment. "Possibly Winslow did not give you his full name—young men are sometimes—young men."

Mrs. Sims smiled. "But I have only one gentleman with me," she explained. "Dr. Sands has been my guest," bridling a little, " for over five years, and he—he's quite elderly."

"My mistake." Thorne bowed profoundly and opened the parlor door. He had watsed enough time that night, first in having a blow-out and on top of that he had run out of gas on a lonely section of the highway from Oaklands. Walking to the nearest house ,a quarter of a mile distant, he had telephoned to Jim to bring gasoline. The latter had been long in coming, or so it seemed in his burning impatience, and Thorne, locking his car, left it standing at the side of the road, and accepted a lift from a passing motorist. Almost at the city limits he had recognized him returning, hailed him, and, thanking the friendly motorist, had hastened into Georgetown with his assistant.

With his hands still on the door Thorne again addressed the little landlady. "Are you acquainted with Miss Elsa Chase?" he asked.

"I'm sorry but I'm not."

"Never heard her name before?"

" I can't say I have," she responded. "And I can't say I haven't; seems to me I've heard her spoken of——"

From upstairs came a scream of prolonged intensity.

"Ma! Oh, Ma!"

"What is it, dearie?" Mrs. Sims fled up the staircase, fear lending wings to her feet, and Thorne instinctively accompanied her. At the head of the stairs a young girl was leaning limply against the wall, her trembling knees barely holding her upright.

"Mrs. Lawrence," she gasped incoherently. "It's awful in there, Ma"

The landlady stopped "Awful what?" she demanded. "Talk sensible, Mary; ain't nobody going to hurt you"

The girl shuddered. "But I touched her," she moaned, "'cause she didn't look up or answer when I put the coffee on the table by her. Oh, her eyes!"

Thorne brushed by Mrs. Sims "Stay here with your daughter," he advised. "Jim and I will see what's the matter," and he and his assistant sped through the dark bedroom and into the tiny sitting room beyond. Both halted on the threshold of the open door at sight of Mrs. Lawrence.

The sightless eyes turned upward, the ghastly twisted mouth, told their own tale without spoken words. Reverently the two men tiptoed to her side and stopped. Both her hands still lay concealed in the partly open desk drawer.

"Call the coroner—"

"He's sick in bed," interjected Jim. "I tried to get a message to him early today."

"Then phone the deputy coroner, Dr. Wingate; he lives in Georgetown, and, Jim," the man halted at the door. "Tell Mrs. Sims not to come in—it's no sight for a delicate woman. Explain who we are and say we'll stay and aid her."

Left by himself Thorne struggled to control his rising excitement. Lying dead before him was the one woman he wanted to see—the blond woman in blue whose actions had so bewildered Arnold Winslow and had aroused his curiosity as to the link connecting her and Elsa Chase.

Thorne made no atempt to touch the body, once convinced there was no sign of life; only in the presence of the proper officials could Mrs. Lawrence be moved. Paying her no further attention, he examined the room, little more than a large closet with its one window. Only one door opened from it and that led to the bedroom through which he had entered. The furniture, while shabby, was neat and clean, as were the walls, bare except for the mirror opposite the door.

In only one corner of the room was there any sign of disorder; there, a half dozen or more magazines lay scattered about and Thorne, dropping on one knee, glanced through them swiftly, to find nothing of any interest. Evidently Mrs. Lawrence's taste had run to lurid literature, as all the magazines were of a type to appeal to that class of reader.

Once more on his feet, Thorne stepped over to the body, the unnatural position of her arms caught and held his attention. Were her hands jammed in the drawer that she had not withdrawn them?

Thorne stooped down and looked under the chair and the table, the womans' feet and legs were twisted, not lying straight before her, confirming his theory that some convulsion, no matter how slight, must have occurred. Then why were her hands still in the table drawer?

The drawer appeared quite deep and Mrs Lawrence's hands were thrust far in it although it was open only a little way. Thorne slipped his hand in the opening along by her arm, papers rustled under his fingers; something soft, possibly a handkerchief, lay to the right as he groped about—a touch of her chill skin made him jerk back involuntarily as their hands came in contact.

He was still on his knees using his electric touch when he caught sight under the table of a piece of paper protruding from under the wooden bottom of the drawer where its sides had evidently warped and separated. Very gingerly Thorne worked the paper loose and held it up to the light. It was apparently the upper half of a billhead, for the printed type ran:

Dryden Sanitarium, Chicago, Illinois

To room	$55.00
To meals for special nurse	15.00
To laboratory fees	10.00

A zigzag tear ended the statement. Thorne sprang up at the sound of people approaching, first thrusting the torn bill into his vest pocket.

To Be Continued.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M LEWIS

THIS was Friday, so we have had all the school there is going to be this week. Jubilee looked at me when we woke up, and I bet he was wondering why I begin spending so much of my time in school all at once I expect he thinks it is because I want to. Then he got to scratching his fleas and forgot all about it. That made some of his fleas hop off onto me, so I got to scratching as hard as he was. So when I had let him down by his rope and had got the pail and milked the dummed brutes and fed my face, I got a bucket of warm water out of the reservore and the flea soap and gave him a good scrubbing, and I bet when I got done the only fleas we had between us was the ones on me. Then we had to hustle to get the cows out to the pasture so we wouldn't be late for school, but by hanging onto their tails we went out pretty fast. But we didn't have anything to hang onto on the way home, so when we looked over the edge of the culvert that runs under the road and I saw a soft shell turkle swim into the culvert I forgot about school and ran down on the other side to grab it when it came out, but it didn't come out so I went in after it, and then it started to swim the other way, but I had it before it had got very far, and when I came out with it the bunch had ran away and left me, all but Jubilee. So then I skun out for school as fast as I could go.

They had gone in for the first bell when I go there, so I flang the turkle in a pail of water that was under the hydrant and got up to my seat just in time. The teacher kinda raised her eyebrows and looked at me but she didn't say anything. And just then there was a yell outside and the teacher went to the wigdow and looked out, and then she leaned out and someone was talking to her. Then the teacher turned around and said, "Do any of you know how, a big turtle got into the janitresses water pail?" said, "Yeswim, I put it there after school." The right. Get I said mean disposition" Then I thought how it sounded and we all laughed We all hunted for it all recess but we couldn't find it

When we were feeding our faces afther I got done milking Youniss and Feeble and Maggie came in, and I told how Feeble sot in the bucket of dirty water and then tried to walk off with the bucket, and they all hollered She didn't know what to say That was one on her. They stayed till it was dark, and then my mother told me to walk home with them Maggie was the last one and she tried to kiss me goodnight. I was supprized I bet she was too.

Love's Reawakening

A Wife's Triumph Over Jealousy

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Fears an Upset of Her Plans.

"YES, dear," I said, as Mary hesitated. "What about Noel?"

"I'm afraid he's going to be foolish about that Mr. Cameron," she said. "I don't know whether you noticed at dinner."

"Yes, I did notice," I returned emphatically, for I had seen with uneasiness that the young talkie star was doing his best to monopolize Mary's attention. In the old wives' parlance he "didn't take his eyes from her," and when he was not talking to her he was listening to her replies as if his future career hung upon her words.

A Slip of the Tongue

"I really tried hard to talk to Noel, too," Mary said, "but Mr Cameron was too clever for me. I couldn't dodge talking to him without being actually rude to him, and I thought you wouldn't want me to be that, because he is Mr Veritzen's friend"

"You are right, dear," I told her. "I haven't decided yet just what Noel's father is planning—something unpleasant, I am afraid—but if I have any change to circumvent him it will depend a great deal upon his being kept in good humor. "I've sacrificed something to the cause,"I smiled, as I touched Dicky's three rosebuds at my girdle, and the showy cluster of Philip Veritzen's white orchids at my shoulder, "and I don't know what other unpleasantness may be in store for me But I don't mind if only things turn out all right We are all in a conspiracy to humor Mr. Veritzen until after this party, and one of the surest ways of angering him would be to treat his friend cavalierly.. I don't mind telling you, dearest, that you managed things beautifully during dinner. You didn't defer to the spoiled young man as most girls would have done, but you kept him mightily interested You'll have less trouble at the dance, because we have three more young men than there are young girls, and the stag line, even though on so miniature a scale, ought to keep any young man from having a monopoly of any girl's time, which is as it should be at dances. Run along now, dear, and enjoy your evening to the utmost. I'll manage a word with Noel before he goes down to the dancing floor. That is what you want isn't it?"

I smiled mischieviously at her, and she flushed.

"Consider yourself hugged and kissed" she said. "I don't dare touch you for fear of rumpling you. You're such a wonderful picture. Auntie Madge, with your hair and your eyes and your coloring, in that green gown And those jade things Uncle Dicky gave you, and the white orchids with the touch of green just makes it perfect And And you don't look any older than we do I don't wonder Mr Veritzen is crazy ——"

She broke off sharply, biting her lips

"Please forgive me," she said, humbly. "Honestly, that just slipped out I didn't mean it."

"See that you never say anything like it again," I said sternly, then relented as I saw her sensitive face shadow

"I know you didn't mean it, sweetheart," I said softly , "so we won't think of it again. And I do thank you for all the pretty things you've said of me, even if they are too extravagant to be true. Good hunting'"

Noel Enraged

I turned away from her quickly, fighting the resentment at her slip, which I had been too just to let her see for more than an instant. In simple justice I had to admit that Philip Veritzen's demeanor to me was such as to call forth a comment like Mary's—thought, if not spoken It was a problem which I meant to solve definitely before very long, but as I had just told Mary, I wanted to avoid all friction with my temperamental employer until after the party

It would not be long now, only a few more hours, and, so far he had been in the best of humors. The appreciation of his magnificent gestures of flowers and theater tickets, the fact that I had worn his orchids the marked attention which Colin Cameron was giving—and Mary permitting—I guessed that all these things were factors in the glow of self satisfaction, which patently wrapped his soul.

Noel must not be permitted to spoil things I made my way to the living room, to which some of the men had come back from the Underwood apartment, and spoke unobtrusively to Noel

"Will you help me a minute Noel?" I asked carelessly. "I need a handy young man in the kitchen"

"Don't you need two?" Jerry asked audaciously But I shook my head, laughingly and Noel followed me docilely into the kitchen, where I shut the door before speaking.

"I know what you want," Noel began hoarsely, and I saw that his fingers were clenched into his palms "You think I'm going to break by promise to you, and I'm afraid I am I wouldn't mind if that man were like the other chaps here tonight But he- I've heard about him he's almost as great a cad as Jack Leslie My father ought to be shot for bringing him here to your party"

Ohio Mother Knew Best

WISE mothers find the things that keep children contented, happy, well. Most of them have learned they can depend on one thing to restore a youngster's good nature when he's cross, fretful, upset.

The experience of Mrs. W. J. Winter, 1107 East 88th St., Cleveland, is a typical one. She says: "I have used California Fig Syrup with both my boys for a number of years. Whenever they're the least bit constipated or restless I give them a little. It has them comfortable, happy, well in a jiffy. Their splendid condition proves I knew best when I decided to use this wonderful preparation with them."

Physicians endorse the use of pure vegetable California Fig Syrup when bad breath, coated tongue, dullness, feverishness, listlessness, etc., show a child's bowels are in need of help. Weak stomach and bowels are toned by its gentle aid; appetite increased; digestion and assimilation are so assisted that weak, undernourished children quickly improve in weight, strength and energy.

The genuine always bears the word California. So look for that when buying. All drugstores have it.

300 Students Answer Call for School Glee Club

Organization of Music Departments Progresses Rapidly, Director Evans Says; Expect To Increase Band For Football Games; Vocal Groups, Orchestra Listed.

Organization of the music department of the public shools is getting under way rapidly, according to T. R. Evans, music supervisor in the schools in an interview yesterday afternoon. Interest has increased noticeably, and the increase of a new member on the music faculty will make the department doubly efficient this year, Mr. Evans stated.

Mr. Evans, in charge of music in all public schools, will be assisted this year by Miss Doris Gump as supervisor of vocal music in the grades and Hamer Mitchell, in charge of all junior high school music and of several grade school orchestras. Mr. Evans will direct the high school band, orchestra and glee clubs, and supervise the work of Miss Gump and Mr. Mitchell.

Form Glee Club

The call for glee club members at the high school this year was responded to by more than 300 students, a considerable increase over the interest shown in past years. The added interest in the two junior high schools is on a par with the spirit shown at the high school, according to Mr Evans.

Additions to the teaching staff in the department will mean that greater attention will be given each pupil who is in music classes.

At Central Junior High school last year more than 350 eighth grade students assembled in a body once each week for a period of music instruction. With Mr. Mitchell in charge of the junior high school music there will be 10 classes of 35 pupils in this grade meeting for two periods each week, a schedule that will give both the instructor and the pupils an opportunity to study and enjoy the class time more thoroughly.

Six eighth grade classes of the same size will meet twice a week at Vernon Heights Junior High school, giving the students the added advantage of a closer contact with the subject.

Mr. Mitchell's plan for Central Junior High school, equipped as it is with radio in every room, is to organize a music appreciation club some time within the next week or two, to study the Walter Damrosch programs broadcast each week and to point out to those in the club, which will be an elective music organization, the finer qualities of the great compositions.

Study is Elective

Music in the high school grades, including the ninth year at the junior high schools, is an elective study, and gives the student a fourth of a credit each year At the end of four year high school course the student will have one full credit towards graduation.

One of the most interesting developments in school music will be that of augenting the high school band with members of the junior band, to play at the football games this year. The plan as Mr. Evans has outlined it, is to give boys and girls of the junior organization who have shown promise of becoming high school band material an opportunity to play with this more advanced group, and at the same time to increase the band to about 50 pieces for the football games. The high school band numbers 30 pieces.

The junior band ,one of the most popular music groups in the grade schools last year, will begin practice periods in about a week, Mr Evans said yesterday.

To make music a more attractive study in the grades, new books were purchased this year, illustrated with pictures of the composers of some of the world's greatest music, and colored drawings illustrating the various pieces studied.

Mr. Mitchell has announced the personnel of the Central Junior High school girls' and boys' glee club and orchestra. The Vernon Heights groups and those in the high school organizations will be announced next week.

Those singing and playing in the Central groups are almost entirely freshmen students with the exception of a few eighth grade students. One hundred and fifty-six boys and girls tried out for the glee clubs, and of this number more than two-thirds were selected, according to Mr Mitchell.

The groups are as follows:

HARDING TEAM LOOKS STRONGER

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star

Tomorrow at 2 p. m. Harding High will send a picked squad of 11 men onto the fairground field to battle with Galion to decide which of the two will open the N. C. O. season with a victory and which will be charged with a defeat. There is no doubt that Harding will have the team on the field at the scheduled time. The biggest question at present is whether or not Harding is going to have a large percentage of its student body in the stands to back the team. Bohyer's team will be in the fight from the start to the finish, depend on that. If the students work half as hard in their cheering efforts as the team does in its scoring efforts Harding and Galion will have a great battle.

In order to help the spectators of the game tomorrow understand the official signals denoting penalties, to be used by the officials in charge, we are listing here a number of fouls and the means whereby the referee will denote which foul was made. Scoring signals are also listed.

Touchdown, both hands above head; safety, one hand above head with two fingers extended; touchback, arms crossed above head; dead ball, one hand above head; field goal, both hands in movement above head; off sides, one arm extended in direction of penalty; incomplete pass, arm extended moving sidewise; striking, kneeing, kicking or clipping, shaking of fist; illegally in motion, arms extended before body, hands alternating vertically; holding, grasping of wrist; interference illegally, pushing forward with hands; foul by both teams, arms above head with finger tips touching arms forming zero.

Francis Bacon of Marion, Karch of Columbus and Mallory will be in charge of the game.

Elmer Shaw, secretary of the city baseball commission has asked all managers of city baseball teams to have the names of the team representatives who will attend the Monday night banquet in his hands before Saturday night. The award of the four league pennants and the city championship trophy will be made at the dinner. The dinner is to cost $.65 to all except the four league winning teams. Any one interested is invited to attend. It will facilitate matters to a great extent for Shaw if the reservations are made as early as possible.

PLAY OF PRESIDENTS LOOKS BETTER THAN IN OPENING BATTLE

Lineup To Be Shifted for N. C. O. Battle with Galion Cohorts.

EXHIBITING at times a flash of form that made it look like a good prospect to wallop Galion Saturday and then settling back into habits that made it look like "just another football team" Harding High school's Presidents went through a three hour and fifteen minute practice drill yesterday. Today the team will forego any hard scrimmage and will spend the practice session brushing up on signals and on the timing of the plays.

Harding will be no top heavy favorite to win the opening N. C. O. contest with Galion. Neither will Galion be rated so high over the locals. Coach Bohyer has worked his charges overtime all this week to correct faults shown in the opening game last Saturday with Toledo Central. Whether or not the hard work will have the desired effect on the Harding gridders cannot be ascertained until after the Galion conflict.

Blocking Improves

If practice sessions can be taken as any criterion the locals will work better Saturday than a week ago. The team's blocking and tackling apparently is improved although at times the entire personnel of the squad has a tendency to tackle too high. The blocking could be improved but is better than it was in the opening encounter.

Bohyer will not start the same lineup this Saturday that went on the field to open hostilities against Toledo. What changes will be made are not altogether certain yet. Alspach is the only man who is sure to be out of his regular place on the end. He has not been at practice this week, a combination of injuries and sickness keeping him out of uniform. It is probable that Sloan, a starting halfback of last week will occupy his flank post.

Several other aspirants have developed during the week to an extent great enough to merit their

JONES, SWEETSER TO MEET IN SEMI-FINAL

Bobby and Jess Only Two of Old Guard Left in Running.

By The Associated Press

MERION CRICKET CLUB, HARDMORE, Pa., Sept. 26—The semi-final round of the amateur championship today found two of the old guard left. Bobby Jones and Jess Sweetser, old men in golf at 28, meet in one match and the winner will battle for the title with the victor in an all-junior match, Gene Homans vs. Charley Seaver.

Bob and Jess, champions both, were born the same year within a month of each other in 1902, Jones in Georgia in March and Jess in Kentucky in April.

The other semi-finalists are much younger. Seaver, a Los Angeles boy is 19, while Homans, who lives at Englewood, N. J., is 22.

Homans defeated Johnny Lehman, the western amateur champion, 3 up in the quarter-finals. They are practically the same in years, but Seaver struck a telling blow for the juveniles when he defeated William F. McPhail of Boston, nearly 20-years his senior, five and four.

Jones disposed of Fay Coleman, young Californian, six and five, and Sweetzer beat back a determined drive by Maurice McCarthy, the young marathon golfer, five and four, after the former intercollegiate champion had the veteran one down at the luncheon intermission.

Today only two 36-hole matches stood between Jones and his grand slam in clubs, all the major titles any man can win in one season.

Sweetser Comes Back

Sweetser had a chance to make his come-back complete by beating the best golfer in the world. The big Kentuckian's brilliant career was interrupted by sickness after he won the British amateur championship in 1926, the first native born American to turn the trick, and since then he has slowly but surely been beating his way back along the trap-dotted trail. Only one other native of the United States ever has won the elusive British amateur and Sweetser today matched shots with him.

The records do not show that any one man has ever beaten Jones twice. Jess stopped Bob, eight and seven at Brookline, Mass., in 1922, and the next day walloped Chick Evans and won the championship.

Two Doubles Matches Set For 5:30 Today

Siefert and Cunningham defeated Long and Gilmore last night in the only tennis doubles match played. The scores were 6-4 and 6-2.

Two matches are set for tonight in the doubles play. Thompson and Dulin will play Penry and Yazel on No. 1 and Wolfinger and Jones will play Herr and Gill on No. 2.

The semi finals of the doubles matches will be played Saturday at 2 p. m. and the finals of the doubles will be played Sunday at 9 a. m. The singles semi-finals will be played Sunday at 2 p. m. with the finals of the singles coming a week later. A more complete schedule will be published in Saturday's Star.

Cubs After Another Revenge Win Today

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 26—All the excitement over the change in Cub managers was over today and the waning National league champions went forth after another revenge victory over Cincinnati, and if possible, to do something to keep the pennant race alive.

Whether the race would come to a halt depended more upon the Pittsburgh Pirates than on the Cubs. Should the St. Louis Cardinals win from the Pirates today, a victory for the Cubs would mean nothing in particular for the Cards would be "in."

Hornsby did not appear on the field during yesterday's game, sending Coach Ray Schalk out to coach at third base. He did go out to be photographed with owner Wrigley before the game, and the 15,000 fans who attended, provided jeers and cheers in about equal volume. The jeering grew much more faint as the Cubs progressed to a 4 to 3 victory.

Eastern Schools Open Grid Season Saturday

NEW YORK, Sept. 26—The gun sounds a general call to arms all along the eastern football front tomorrow. A few teams, notably Harvard, Princeton, Penn and Navy, will wait another week before swinging into action.

Tomorrow's engagements, for the most part, pit the strong against the weak as major teams sharpen up attack and defense for the titanic battles to come.

Win for St. Louis or Loss for Cubs To End National Race.

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer.

ONLY one game now stands between the St. Louis Cardinals and their third National league pennant in five seasons. They got back into action at home yesterday and beat Pittsburgh 9 to 0.

Chicago managed by Rogers Hornsby, defeated Cincinnati 4 to 3. One more St. Louis victory or one defeat for the Cubs will settle the struggle. If Chicago wins its remaining games against the Reds and the Cards lose three to Pittsburgh, the season will end in a tie with a three-game playoff to decide the pennant winner.

As the veteran spitballer Burleigh Grimes held the Pirates to seven hits, the St. Louis batters collected a dozen effective blows.

The Cubs got a start against Cincinnati, but the Reds proved troublesome. Hornsby, who became active manager just before the game, sent young Bud Teachout to the mound, and the youthful southpaw did well for eight frames. Home runs by English and Haftnett in the first two innings started the Cubs off ahead and a few more timely blows gave Chicago a 4-1 lead going into the ninth. But then Tony Cuccinello drove his second home run of the day over the left field wall. Harry Heilmann duplicated the wallop and Ford singled before Pat Malone was hurried in to save the game.

The American league champions, the Philadelphia Athletics, played six innings against the New York Yankees, before rain halted the game. They piled up 17 hits off Ruffing and Johnson and a 13 to 3 score. Lou Gehrig's 41st home run, made in the first inning, accounted for all the Yankee runs.

The second place Washington Senators, found the going somewhat tough against the Boston Red Sox, but finally came out ahead, 3 to 2.

1930 Grid Rule Explanations

ANSWERS

1. Backfield men must be at least one yard behind the line of scrimmage. The penalty for violation of the rule is 5 yards.

2. Center, guards or tackles cannot be shifted into the backfield unless permanently or unless they remain at least five yards behind the line of scrimmage until the ball is passed.

3. It was a touchdown for A the instant the ball crossed the goal line. The ball was dead. It is no longer necessary for player to touch ball to ground after crossing the line.

4. It is a touchdown for B player for he was illegally blocked in his efforts to recover the fumbled ball.

5. It is an illegal scrimmage formation and the penalty is five yards for the offending team.

QUESTIONS

1. What is the penalty for encroaching on the neutral zone?

2. What is determining factor in deciding between a touchback and a safety?

3. Team A punts. Safety man of team B touches ball on field and it rolls into end zone. When is such a play a touchback and when not?

4. There are eight men on scrimmage line left end playing 10 yards outside of tackle. Just before ball is snapped left end starts in toward center and is continuously in motion slightly toward goal line and is three yards behind line when ball is snapped. What is decision?

5. Player of A punting from own end zone near sideline and slices kick so that ball crosses sideline before leaving end zone. What is decision?

CLASH TODAY

Colonels, Redwings To Play Second Game of Series.

By The Associated Press

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 26—Weather permitting, the Louisville Colonels and Rochester Redwings clash in the second game of the little world's series today.

Rain forced postponement of the second game yesterday.

Trailing the American Association champions as a result of the 7-3 beating they absorbed in the first game, the Redwings enter the second game, handicapped by the absence from the lineup of George Anderson, shortstop.

Rain Postpones Battle of Campolo-Sharkey

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 26—Threat of rain caused postponement of the 15-round heavyweight tilt between Jack Sharkey and Victorio Campolo last night. Directors of Madison Square garden decided to hold it in the garden itself next Friday night.

The garden failed to reveal its reasons for transferring the bout from the stadium, where 75,000 spectators can be accomodated, to the garden with its maximum capacity of barely over 20,000 but two factors were believed to have led to the surprising decision. First, it was believed the garden did not care to risk further postponements because of weather conditions; and secondly the bout had aroused so little public interest that it was believed it might more profitably be conducted in the garden itself.

ST. LOUIS INFIELD BETTER OFFENSIVELY THAN PHILADELPHIA

Frisch Easily Class of Both Teams; A's Lead at First.

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 26—The St. Louis Cardinals, assuming they will carry the National league banner into the world's series next week, for the third time in five years, fgures to have a distinct infield advantage over the Athletics, offensively and probably defensively.

Frankie Frisch, no longer a youngster but still the same old Fordham flash, is the standout infielder on either club. The Cardinals second sacker excels at bat the infield and on the bases.

Gelbert at Short

With Charley Gelbert, his year working partner at shortstop, Frisch forms a great defensive combination.

Bishop and Boley, the A's veteran keystone pair, have always suffered by comparison in Philadelphia with the famous old combination of Collins and Barry, remembered as paragons among infielders. Boley and Bishop are a workmanlike pair, defensively, although they do not present the offensive threat of Frisch and Gelbert.

The A's claim an advantage among first basemen with Jimmy Foxx outhitting Jim Bottomley about thirty points, but the Cardinal left-hander can at least hold his own on the defense.

WHEN YOU PUT
corn flakes
ON YOUR GROCERY LIST

IF YOU make it read "Kellogg's Corn Flakes" you will be sure of getting —the most popular ready-to-eat cereal in the world, and one of the most economical foods you can serve.

—the ORIGINAL Corn Flakes with a matchless flavor.

—crisp, crunchy flakes in a patented, inner-seal waxtite wrapper (an exclusive Kellogg feature) that keeps them always oven-fresh.

—a delightful, ready-to-eat cereal for breakfast. Popular for lunch with cool milk or cream, fruits or honey added.

—a wholesome, easy-to-digest evening meal for the little folks — or a late supper.

These are reasons why millions of wise buyers always insist upon Kellogg's Corn Flakes in the red-and-green package. They know that no substitute can take its place.

IMPORTANT: Unless you specify "Kellogg's," you may be offered other corn flakes with the claim they are "just like Kellogg's"—or even that "they are made by Kellogg." Such statements are false. Kellogg makes only one brand of corn flakes. It is the most popular in the world because it is different and better liked than any other! At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

RADIO
SLUMBER MUSIC
One of the best loved features in Radio—SLUMBER MUSIC—is now being broadcast nationally over Station WJZ and associate stations of the National Broadcasting Company by the Kellogg Company every Sunday night at eleven o'clock Eastern Daylight Saving Time. Progress of Medical Science Adds Years to Span of Life, Federal Bureau Reports

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—To every child born in 1930, medical science, in the old fairy tale role of god father, says: "You may logically expect to have 10 years more of living than the 1910 baby."

Expectation of life at birth has been increased from 48 to 58 years in the last two decades. Older age groups also have an extended life span. Such is today's good news from the United States public health service.

To the long campaign against infant mortality, and to increased public health activities throughout the land, the public health service attributed the cheering results of the latest life table figures.

Records As Basis

Life insurance and census bureau figures are the basis for the computations. Specific death rates are computed for each age from one year to 100 and beyond in arriving at what any baby may logically expect in the way of living.

The public health service pronounced these the principal disease-control triumphs of the 20 years, chief factors in the longer life span.

No child need now die of smallpox or diphtheria, among the most deadly scourges of the past. Babies may safely be vaccinated for smallpox and be given anti-toxin for diphtheria.

Scarlet fever has become so mild health authorities seldom recommend whole sale immunization, but it is possible to immunize.

If one child in a family has contracted measles, it is now often possible to protect the remaining children by administration of immune serum.

Protection Against Typhoid

Typhoid fever is well guarded against in most American cities by sanitary control of water and milk supplies, and typhoid vaccination is excellent protection.

Children bitten by mad dogs can be saved by the Pasteur treatment.

Yellow fever and bubonic plague may be readily controlled in progressive communities by measures against the mosquito and rat respectively.

Your morning cup of coffee is important

That Is Why the COFFEE-CUP-COPS Are On the Job

YOUR MORNING CUP of coffee should start you right for the day. It should warm you, cheer you, pep you.

AND THAT IS the mission of Old Reliable Coffee.

YOU CAN ALWAYS DEPEND upon Old Reliable. It knows no variations in goodness. It is always alive... stimulating, invigorating . . . always deeply, richly satisfying.

THESE DAYS it is harder to get a good cup of coffee than a poor one.

BECAUSE there are tons of nondescript, homeless coffees trying to get acceptance in the United States today.

SOME OF THEM are getting through in gay packages at cheap prices. Some slip through into higher priced coffees.

BUT NONE gets into Old Reliable

BECAUSE the Coffee-Cup-Cops are on the job, watching for just such "suspicious characters".

THE COFFEE-CUP-COPS cup-test Old Reliable. For your health's sake . . . you need cup-tested assurance that your coffee is free from all imperfection.

WANT PRICES CUT

Cattlemen Think Reductions Would Encourage Meat Sales.

By International News Service

SALT LAKE CITY—Utah cattlemen want cheaper meat. The public is not buying the normal amount of beef at present because prices are too high. Lower retail prices would benefit both the producer and the retailer in that more meat would be sold.

This is the conclusion of J. M. MacFarlane, president of the Cattle and Horse Growers' association. The experience of Denver dealers in cutting the price of meat has led to a similar movement on the part of Utah cattlemen.

MacFarlane believes that with carcasses selling for 12 cents a pound, the 40 cents charged for steaks discourages the consumption of meat.

Other Utah cattlemen have become interested in the movement.

Reduction of prices is in progress in California also.

Cocoanuttier Than Ever!

The MARX Brothers in "Animal Crackers"

with Lillian Roth and the craziest cast of fast stepping funsters you ever saw.

"The Cocoanuts" was just a mild warm-up or the fast and furious, for the fast and furious, merry and mad merriment of the Marx Brothers in "Animal Crackers." The Laugh Hit of the Ages. The Marx Brothers — the nuts that made lunacy a pastime.

FOLLOWS SON IN AIR

By The Associated Press

PRESCOTT, Ark.—The cockpit of an airplane is to take the place of an easy chair for L. N. Westmoreland, 54, a watch repairer here.

Moreland recently bought a new plane and he is finishing up his instruction for a pilot's license. Eventually he hopes to get a transport license.

"I propose to use it, too," he said. "I will branstorm and haul passengers. They will ride with me because they'll know I can't cut any fancy didoes in the air—I would rather be called the oldest pilot than the fanciest."

HIS tutor, R. H. Barnes of Camden, Ark., says the 54-year-old flyer is exceptionally apt in picking up intricacies of the air.

Westmoreland's desire to learn to fly was the result of his son, Jewell, entering a naval aviation school.

"That boy isn't going to shove me into a backseat," the father told his wife. Now father and son expect to go into the aviation business when Jewell leaves the navy, and the watch repair shop is slated for a closing.

CONNECTICUT'S AUTO DEATH RATE HIGH

27.5 Persons in Each 100,000 in State Claimed by 1929 Accidents.

By International News Service

HARTFORD, Conn.—The Hartley Corporation's sixth study of automobile traffic in Connecticut, conducted by Professor Richard Shelton Kirby of Yale, shows that for each person in this state who dies from typhoid fever, four die from diphtheria and 30 from auto accidents. In the last seven years the equivalent of whole villages in the state perished, and in the same period the injured totaled a number equal to the population of several cities in the state.

Connecticuts' auto death rate is above that of neighboring states. In 1929, the report says, the death rates for each 100,000 of population were: Connecticut 27.5, New York 25.4, Massachusetts 17.9, and Rhode Island 17.6. Some day, it is hoped, the rate may be down to that of New York.

Professor Kirby's study shows that the 1929 death rate was 1.38 for each 1,000 cars and it was 2.3 for each million gallons of gasolene. Accidents for each million gallons of gasolene totalled 125

Going back to the seven-year period, Professor Kirby finds that Connecticut has seen 2,556 people killed, and 68,124 injured in that period. Of those killed, 1,404 were pedestrians, and 1,152 occupants of cars. The majority of those injured were occupants of cars

The number of people killed in the seven-year period were equal to the population of the villages of Newton, or Canton, or East Lyme. The injured equalled the population of the cities of Norwalk and Norwich or of Danbury, Naugatuck, and New London.

Ten primary causes of personal injuries and fatal accidents are listed: inattention, carelessness, intoxication, inexperience, failure to grant right of way, skidding, operating too fast for conditions, driving on the wrong side of the road, violating other rules, improper equipment. The pedestrian's main faults are: inattention, stepping from behind object carelessly, and intoxication.

WHEN IS A FATHER NOT A FATHER!

YOU'LL enjoy the answer in this racy, rollicking tale of a prospective bridegroom who was handed the surprise of his life on his wedding eve! And who was faced with three prospective mothers for the surprise. From the hilarious, hearty Broadway stage smash. See it!

RIGHT ON TIME DELIVERY

We think we have just as fine a bunch of carrier boys as it is possible to obtain. One of the things we impress upon them is the fact that the subscriber must have his paper "on time"—by that we mean, as nearly the same time each day as is humanly possible.

Just check up on the boy that brings your paper and see how punctually he delivers YOUR copy of The Star...He may be late occasionally, but when he is the chances are ten to one that it isn't his fault.

The Marion Star

Show your appreciation of the service your carrier renders you, by meeting his collections on time.

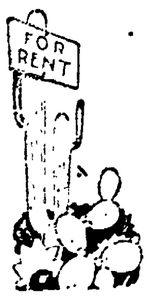
Would You Plant A For Rent Sign In The Desert?



If you were the owner of a cozy home in a popular neighborhood and it was vacant, you wouldn't plant a sign in the desert telling folks about it.

You'd hardly put one in the window—because compared to the people you can reach through Want-Ads, it would be almost useless.

Certainly, then, when seeking a tenant for a flat, bungalow or apartment you'll do as other people, who save time and income, have done for years—

Put your "sign" in the Classified Want-Ad Columns and get prospects galore.

LOOKS BETTER THAN IN OPENING BATTLE

Lineup To Be Shifted for N. C. O. Battle with Galion Cohorts.

Competition for various posts. Lindsey has been looking better at the halfback position than any other candidate and may get the call Saturday. Cox, Hunt or Reed may be in there at the other half. Bush will start again at fullback.

The line may also be shifted around slightly although most of it will remain intact as it started last week. Whether or not Housewerth will be able to start is not sure. His nose is still in bad condition as a result of being struck during the Toledo game and he may grace the sidelines when the game starts. He will no doubt play at least part of the game. If he does not start Jones will probably line up at one guard post. Who will line up at the other is not certain. Eckenbarger, 200 pound giant should be the logical man but his work is not meeting all the requirements of the post and he may give way to some one else. Who may take his place is uncertain.

Clay and Smith will again be at the tackles and Eric Williams will do the pivot man's work.

Upon literature becomes a bore because it has to say the same thing over again in the same old way.

STOCKS ACTIVE BUT UNSTEADY

Big Steel and American Can Lead in Recovery of Favorites.

By International News Service

NEW YORK, Sept. 26—Short reactions and recoveries followed each other in swift succession in an active and unsteady market today. Selling orders which had accumulated over night piled into the market at the outset, forcing prices of most of the favorites downward. In the second hour the list rallied under the lead of Big Steel and American Can, most of the leaders that were under fire in the first period recovering a good part of their lost ground. "Selling in the allies" was the program for the early afternoon, with another rally in the fourth hour to even matters up.

It was general Wall street view that the best grade stocks had settled down close to the bottom of the present move.

Radio, General Electric and Westinghouse were under pressure in the forenoon as Radio dipped off to 28 1-4, the lowest price since early 1929. A prominent commission house estimates third quarter earnings of Radio Corp at from 1 to 15 cents a share and on that basis the preferred stocks have been dropping in anticipation of a possible reduction in dividends. The preferred sold today at 57 against 69 1-2 last week.

Adams, a Pirate cast-off, has been one of the big factors in the sensational pennant rush of the Cardinals, playing a bang-up game in the field, besides hitting harder than any year since he was a regular with the Cubs. WHEAT PRICES AT LOW LEVEL

Heavy Selling Forces Values Down on Chicago Market.

BULLETIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 26—Wheat sold down today to below bottom points heretofore reached this season or indeed in practically a whole generation. Most Chicago traders appeared to be disposed to await new market developments before operating on the buying side.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 26—Renewing selling based largely on continued notice of official references to prospective lower prices carried wheat values down early today to near bottom record levels. Some rallying power, however, was shown by the wheat market after explanations were circulated that wheat price downtowns looked for were not in comparison with present quotations but as against the average of the last five years. Opening unchanged to ⅛c off, wheat later suffered a decided drop all around. Sympathizing with wheat weakness, corn started ⅛@⅜c down, and decided a little more, but then rallied.

Fresh setbacks in wheat prices today were in the face of reports of crop deterioration in parts of Australia owing to need of rain. On the other hand, Liverpool reported further pressure of wheat offerings from Russia. Besides, unofficial estimates today of the French wheat crop raised the total 40,000,000 bushels above recent private forecasts, indicating notable improvement of threshing returns.

It was announced that Black Sea shipments of wheat the last week amounted to 3,584,000 bushels, making a total of 19,056,000 bushels since Aug. 1, as contrasted with only 3,512,000 bushels during the same time last year after Aug. 1. The bulk of Black Sea shipments were stated to have source in Russia. Assertions that Canada overnight had disposed of 1,000,000 bushels for export were more or less counterbalanced by talk that United States wheat quotations abroad were out of line. Oats as well as corn reflected the action of wheat. Provisions declined with cereals.

MAKES DEBUT

Ethel Barrymore Colt Appears in Play's Premiere at Columbus.

By United Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 26—Ethel Barrymore Colt, daughter of the tragedienne, Ethel Barrymore, made her stage debut here last night in "Scarlet Sister Mary," in which the elder Miss Barrymore had the leading role.

Miss Colt did not appear until the final act when she spoke a few lines. She received an ovation from the audience although the critics today took her to task for speaking so low that the effect of her dialog was lost.

It was the premiere of "Scarlet Sister Mary."

Scenic Country in Cave Region on Sunday Tour

SCENIC country with numerous points of interest as an added attraction are features of the Marion Auto club's week-end trip suggested today by Mrs. D. V. Gallagher, secretary.

The trip includes Chillicothe, where Ohio's capital first was located; the Seven Caves near Bainbridge, and prehistoric mounds in that vicinity.

Route 23 may be followed to Chillicothe and route 50 from Chillicothe will take the tourist to Bainbridge. After a visit to the caves, the motorist may take route 50 on to Rainsboro and then follow route 70 north through Greenfield to Washington Court House. At Greenfield may be seen the famous McClain High school, the gift of Edward Lee McClain, millionaire Greenfield philanthropist.

From Washington Court House route 38 may be followed to London. Route 42 from London will take the traveler through Plain City to Delaware and from Delaware route 23 may be taken back to Marion. The Marion-Delaware route would be the only section over which the motorist would have to backtrack.

Mrs. Gallagher points out that the territory in and around Chillicothe, one of Ohio's oldest cities, is full of places of interest that alone would make the trip worth while.

No detours will hamper the motorist on the itinerary suggested by Mrs. Gallagher, according to the latest state highway detour bulletin.

The bulletin disclosed the removal of numerous detours throughout the state, including the one on the Harding Highway just south of Galion.
